

INTRODUCING A POWERFUL INSTITUTIONAL MOMENTUM SETUP WITH EXTREME ACCURACY FOR THE CME CURRENCY AND FOREX MARKETS!! EXACT BAR ENTRY WITH LARGE MOVES AND TIGHT STOPS!!

I would first like to thank all my members in my live day trading room over the last year. Jerel and I look forward to another successful year in 2010 with you. We will only bring indicators for Ninja or Tradestation that will have a serious impact on your trading. Enjoy the symmetry dots.

After training hundreds of day traders and trading the market nearly 20 years, almost all fall into two huge pitfalls when day trading the markets. Bottom line, no defined trading rules (defined setups) and the biggest mistake is that they just can not take the emotion out of trading. In other words, they trade just to trade or if the setup does not work out they will average the position down hoping for it to come back. I have seen it all. The bottom line trading is about RULES! To be a successful futures or currency trader you must have trading RULES and keep the setups as simple as possible. You must know your entry, exit and trailing stop before you enter the trade. You must EXECUTE your trading plan. You must have a great Risk/Reward as a trader or in the end you will likely fail. If you are a system jumper then you will likely fail. Jumping from one Holy Grail to the next will likely kill your account. If you do not know your exact entry to the bar, exact stop to the bar and how to let your winners run to the bar then you will likely fail. Trading is about trading your specific trading setups every day over and over. You have to be very systematic in your approach. No emotions. Trade what you see not what you think. Never changing the RULES or trying to think you know more than what the chart is telling you. Just know your trading rules and take your EMOTION OUT and execute your setup. In other words. EXECUTE YOUR TRADING PLAN. Stops are part of the game. Trade what the markets are telling you with symmetry. All successful traders will get stopped out, however, by keeping your stop small with great Risk to Reward trades then being stopped is part of doing business. Remember, the market is not a living breathing thing, its just a transfer of wealth from one trader to another. The traders that don't have systematic entry, stops and trailing stops are easy prey for us that do. The market is a zero sum game. Every time someone wins then someone has to lose. I have shown that to all my members with my Top 3 Setups where the Risk to Reward is off the charts and now I introduce my top momentum setup. Four setups that are the pulse of the market. The key word is Symmetry. I teach you how to trade it everyday in all markets. If you know the symmetry of the market then your trading goals will reach new levels. Symmetry in the market is really easy to see. Is the market that you are trading setting higher lows(up trend) or lower highs(downtrend). My automated dots that we sell to our members for Ninja and Tradestation do just that. All major tops and all major bottoms all have one thing in common. Major tops will always have a lower high in price action and bottoms will have a higher low in price action. That is the symmetry of the market. If the market is going to continue the up or down move then it must continue to show you as a trader that it will not break the symmetry that it is in. In other words, if the market is in a hard up trend, meaning setting higher lows, then it must continue to keep setting higher lows or its tipping its hand that a trend change is in place. If you take anything from this PDF then please remember if you know the symmetry in any market that you trade then you know more than 90% of the traders that are trading against you. Let's take a look at symmetry real quick then move on to my top momentum setup.

Ok! Let's take a look at the British Pound chart below. You will notice that I have cyan dots and purple dots on the charts. These are the symmetry dots that I sell to Tradestation and Ninja users and these dots are automatically updated in my live trading room that shows all my charts live on your own computer around the world on the Euro and British Pound. You will notice that I had a #1 buy setup at my institutional level and the market kept setting higher lows with my cyan dots and the setup moves over 90 ticks with no heat. This is symmetry. The market kept setting higher lows and it never closed below my cyan dots all the way to my next institutional number.

Before I go any further. This PDF is about my top momentum setup in my live day trading room. If you would like to know about my other Top 3 Setups like this British Pound example then please visit www.daytradingthefutures.com and click on the Top 3 Setups tab at the top. You will find I have specific trading rules for entry, exit and trailing stops when you view my live day trading screens. You will find tons of recent trades with the rules on my 1 2 3 setups. Let's get to my momentum setup right now and remember go to that tab to view my other 3 top setups. This is a momentum setup where price action moves immediately and the stops are real tight. Let's get started. Once again, please review my website for my other top 3 setups. Let's start with Symmetry again. Please take a look below at my automated indicator.

You can clearly see that after the breakout of my symmetry dots that prices trailed the red dots all the way up until the breakdown of symmetry then the market falls hard. My momentum setup has very defined rules.

1. ONLY take longs if the lower dots (red dots in this example) are setting higher lows from the previous red dots and ONLY take shorts if the upper dots are setting lower highs (blue dots in this example). Momentum is created when the first higher low or lower high from a major top or bottom has occurred. My 5 minute chart in the trading room with my divergence indicator will show you the big picture when a trend change is happening. Also, you will not look to enter a momentum trade unless the dots have a higher low for buys or lower high for shorts while viewing my screens on the 1 minute chart. Remember, symmetry is always first for a momentum setup. Let me put a marked chart up first then I'll show you examples and go over DEFINED RULES.

Let's break down the chart in my live day trading room. Symmetry dots are cyan and purple. Higher lows in cyan=buy bias. Lower highs in purple dots=sell bias. Both act as support/resistance until whole candle closed below/above. Notice the number count at the bottom of the chart. With those numbers you will see a 40 line and 60 line. These lines and numbers with symmetry will be your key to success with my momentum setup. It takes all three to make the setup work with my momentum dot to enter. (I will go over how we use two candles stick formations in the room to time the trade before it happens).

1. Symmetry
2. 40-60 Line
3. Number Count
4. Momentum Dot(Green to buy/Magenta to Short)

Notice how I put them in order!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!! Very important.

Please refer to the above chart!

1. Symmetry-Higher lows in cyan dots the trend is up only look for momentum buy setup.
2. 40-60 When buying higher lows I use the 40-60 line to show my what bar i should be buying or selling. Here we have higher lows on the BP with my cyan symmetry dots. A defined rule is to buy above a pullback to 60% or 40% when the number count is a 9 or 13 bar. The 9 or 13 must close on or straddle above these numbers. Once this happens you can enter with a green buy dot.
3. Number count is key. The reason this setup works so great is that you are buying a higher high with symmetry dots and only looking for a small retracement indicating strength. The market will show its hand when it stops at 40% or 60% with a 13 or 9 count. This is a huge hedge fund play on longer time frames. I like to use it to day trade. Moves are large and fast and stops are real tight.
4. Momentum dot is key. If the market is going to pause in an uptrend or downtrend then you must have a momentum entry to get in when the train is just starting to leave the station then just trail with symmetry. Let's go over the top momentum setups in order.

BEST SETUP-If the market is setting symmetry higher lows(cyan dots) and the market pulls back to a 9 or 13 count ABOVE 60%. Key is above 60%. Nothing better than this. Market showing major strength. Higher lows on dots. Pull back is shallow to 60% with 9 or 13 count. Market should explode up. Only buy with first green dot. Stop will be placed at the swing low after dot entry on the 1 minute chart. One tick below the lowest swing low or on the 1 minute chart will create a really tight 4-6 tick stop and you will see 25-70 tick moves. Opposite for shorts. 9 or 13 count with lower highs in symmetry dots at 40% you will take first magenta sell dot and the hard stop will be above 1 minute swing high which is typically right before sell dot.

SECOND BEST-The market is setting a higher low with the dots. You get a pull back to 40% to buy with a 9 or 13 count. Enter just like above only the stop will be one whole candle below the swing high or low because of the deeper pull back to 40% in an uptrend instead of 60% so strength is not as strong. Trail with symmetry dots.

THIRD-Taking 9 or 13 buy or sells outside of the 40-60 but ONLY ON symmetry dots. Ill go over this in the room.

1. Symmetry setting higher lows(cyan dots)
2. Only Buys
3. Market pulls back to 60% Three Times
4. 9 bar prints on the line or touches the 60% line this means watch for a hard fast move
5. Wait for Green dot to enter.
6. Once long Stop will be 1 tick below swing low, typically right before entry dot. If it was a 40% pull back meaning the count stopped at 40% instead of 60% showing a deeper pull back and 9 or 13 on 40% then stop whole candle below swing low. Ill go over the doji and hammer and how it helps on the number count in the room when the count is close. Notice how the first two 9 buys at 60% the market exploded. The third had a 9 buy 60% long but reversed at 3 bars after green dot this tells my members to reverse. Ill go over the failure in the room. Huge moves. Last one this week 6 tick stop 70 tick move. Bottom, line if you have an opposite color dot that pops up within three bars after entry then momentum is slowing so exit with small stop or profit and reverse. Ill go over this in the room. Ok! Let me show you a few recent trades. Once you are in the live trading room I go over this 5 days a week from 9am-11am everyday and we trade 6 days a weeks almost 24 hours a day. Same setups over and over. ALSO, VERY VERY VERY VERY VERY IMPORTANT. THE BEST TIME TO TRADE MO MO IS WITH VOLUME. 8-11AM EST. THE BEST WITH THE NY. OPEN. Heres some examples.

Notice, symmetry up meaning higher lows on cyan. 9 buys right on 60% line with green dot. No heat huge moves. Next!

1. Cyan symmetry dots are up. Only momentum buys
 2. 9 buy on 40%
 3. Enter with green dot. Now stop will be whole candle close below swing low right before green dot because its not above 60% so you will need to it breath more.
 - 4 Second setup 13 buy on 40% enter with green dot. Stop whole candle below swing low.
- Next!

Textbook! 9 Sell below 40% indicating major weakness and symmetry dots setting lower highs. Enter with Magenta sell dot. Stop 1 tick above swing high before dot.
